Below are the correct answers, which are shown in red. The forms of some verbs have changed from how they appeared in the box.

1. I am an extremely driven person with extensive experience in marketing, so I believe that I have a lot to bring to the table.
2. If we take on more clients at this stage, we will be spreading ourselves too thin. Maybe it is better to rein in spending on marketing until we can bring in someone to take care of new clients.
3. If we completely revamp our brand image, then we risk alienating some of our longest-serving, most loyal customers. I suggest that we carry out a survey among customers to gauge their feelings about our image before we move forward with any changes.
