

Business English Phrases From Halloween - Answers

We all have to be careful about what we post on social media. If in your past you have made inappropriate comments, or posts which could appear very unprofessional in the eyes of a recruiter, it would be very wise to delete them, because recruiters are notorious for scrutinizing all social media accounts of those they are seeking to hire. If you have a skeleton in the closet, even if it is something from many years ago, it could come back to haunt you when you are searching for a new job position.

In a meeting, it is extremely important to challenge the views of participants, as this encourages healthy debate and can ultimately lead you to the right decision. Doing this deliberately is a technique which should be encouraged, but it is advised always to state that you are simply playing devil's advocate, because otherwise you could come across as being unnecessarily confrontational.

After the product was recalled due to faulty packaging, the story began to spread very quickly on social media and across news outlets around the world. The company claimed that they were the victim of a witch hunt, as the media proceeded to portray the company in an excessively bad light, causing long term damage to the company's reputation.

